Note:

This is important in recommending suitable products that reflect your risk preferences. People make investment decisions based on time, performance of an investment and the risk they are prepared to accept. You should consider that short term capital losses might be a consequence of aiming for higher, longer term returns. As a general rule, the higher the potential return from an investment, the higher the risk that capital may not be returned.

Memorandum of Understanding

Our recommendations are made reasonably based on your current situation and objectives. While care is taken, we, our employees and FA representatives are not liable for, nor guarantee:

- a) Investment under-performance (past performance does not assure future returns).
- b) Insurance outcomes that differ from projections due to factors beyond our control.
- c) Negligence by third-party investment professionals.
- d) Changes to assumptions used in our recommendations.

AFFORDABILITY

Ensure you can meet all premiums or investments without undue strain. As a guide you should spend at most 15% of income* on insurance protection and invest at least 10% of income for retirement and other financial goals.

* May exceed 15% of income if the products contain both investment and protection elements |  After deducting CPF contributions.

CONCENTRATION

Different investments carry different risks. To reduce "concentration risk," it is prudent to diversify across asset types, strategies, and exposures, rather than relying on just one or two investments. Know your risk appetite and tolerance, and consult our representative to assess if this investment is suitable from a concentration perspective.

With knowledge on the suggested guide on AFFORDABILITY and CONCENTRATION RISK, the amount to be invested and/or premium commitment, is affordable and comfortable?
